Method of Instruction.

Instruction will be given by lectures, reading and catechising. The lectures are intended to present all of the leading principles of the common law applicable to the subject, and the modification of the common law by statutes, and to give illustrations of the applications of the common and statute law. Special attention is given to the statutes in force in Maryland, and to peculiarities of law in that State, where there are such; but the reasons for these statutory modifications and local peculiarities are explained, so that the student may in a short time acquaint himself with the local peculiarities of the law in any State in which he may practise.

Readings from text-books will be assigned on the subjects treated of in the lectures.

The Catechising at each lecture will be on the subjects discussed in the preceding lecture and on the assigned readings.

Library and Buildings.

The buildings of the several departments of the University of Maryland are all situated upon the corner of Lombard and Greene Sts., the Law School having removed to their new building there on the first of January, 1884. Connected with the lecture hall is a large and pleasant reading-room and study for the use of students, containing a carefully selected library of text-books upon the subjects embraced in the course of study, volumes of Leading Cases, the United States and Maryland Reports, Digests, Statutes, etc. It is proposed to add to these the English Common Law and Equity Reports, and such other books as may from time to time seem desirable, and to keep the tables supplied with the prominent Law Reviews.

Classes and Duration of Course.

The students attending the School are divided into three classes—a Senior Class, an Intermediate Class, and a Junior Class. The subjects of study in each class are :

JUNIOR CLASS.

First term (Oct. to Feb.): Common Law (Elementary Law), Personal Property, and Domestic Relations.

Second Term (Feb. to June): Real Property, and the Law of Contracts.

INTERMEDIATE CLASS.

First Term (Oct. to Feb.): Criminal Law, Executors and Administrators, Pleading, and Torts.

Second Term (Feb. to June): Real Property (Title), Commercial Law, Bills and Notes, Corporations, and Pleading, continued.

SENIOR CLASS.

First Term (Oct. to Feb.): Practice, Evidence, International Law and Admiralty.

Second Term (Feb. to June): Equity Jurisprudence and Procedure, Constitutional and Statute Law.

The lectures are all after 4 P. M. A schedule of their arrangement will be furnished at the beginning of the session.

It will be seen that the full course of study extends over three years, and the Faculty are satisfied that students who have not made considerable progress in the study of law do themselves and the Law School an injury by entering the upper classes. Where students can afford it, they should spend three years in the study of law. But in order to meet the case of those who cannot afford this, students are permitted to enter and take the examinations of more than one class during the same term, their fitness to complete the course in less than three years being determined by their ability to pass the regular examinations at the close of each term, and to comply with the other requirements for graduation.

Examinations, Theses and Degrees.

The Law School confers the degree of Bachelor of Laws on students who have attended the course of lectures to all three classes, have attained the required standard at the examinations, have submitted to the Faculty satisfactory theses, and argued the required number of cases in the Moot Court.

There are six examinations each session—two of the Senior Class, two of the Intermediate Class and two of the Junior Class. Each class has an examination at the close of each term. The examinations are by printed questions, to be answered in writing. Each examination is valued at 100. In order to graduate, the student must attain a grade of at least three-fourths on the questions propounded by each professor at each examination.

The subjects for the theses for the next session will be given to the students in November, 1887, and they will be expected to hand them in to the Faculty by April 1, 1888. The attention of the students is called to the fact that the Faculty will require a high standard of excellence in the theses.

The Faculty reserve to themselves the right to refuse a degree to any student writing an unsatisfactory thesis or neglecting the preparation and argument of the Moot Court cases, whatever grade he may have attained at the examinations.

Moot Court.

The Moot Court will meet once a week during the session, and will be presided over by one of the professors.

At the beginning of the session a pamphlet will be placed in the hands of each of the students, containing statements of the cases to be argued before the Moot Court during the entire session of eight months; and students will be assigned to argue cases several months before the argument, when that is practicable.

Prizes.

The Faculty will, at the close of the session 1887-8, award two prizes—

1. A prize of $100 to the student attaining the highest grade in the six examinations.

At the close of the session 1886-7 this prize was awarded to James D. Cotter, of Baltimore, Md.

2. A prize of $100 to the student who submits the best thesis.

At the close of the session 1886-7, this prize was also awarded to James D. Cotter, of Baltimore, Md., by a committee consisting of the Hon. J. Morrison Harris and Messrs. Edward Otis Hinkley and Archibald Stirling, Jr., of the Baltimore Bar.

Calendar for Session 1887-8.

SESSION AND TERMS.

The next session commences on the first Monday of October (Oct. 3), 1887, and closes on May 31, 1888. There will be a short vacation from December 23, 1887, to January 3, 1888, inclusive.

The session is divided into two terms. The first term extends from the beginning of the Session to January 31, 1888; and the second term from February 1, 1888, to May 31, 1888.

COMMENCEMENT.

The commencement will be held May 25, 1888, at 8 P. M.

Opportunities for Attending other Lectures.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Johns Hopkins University on pp. 18, 19 of this catalogue. It will be seen that students at the Law School will be able to attend courses of lectures at the University on the following subjects: Ancient and Modern Politics, Modern Historians, Finance and Taxation, History of the English Law of Real Property, Administrative Organization, and Social Statistics. The student may select one or more of these courses. The fees for attendance will be very moderate.

Privileges, Courts, &c.

Any student entered in one or two classes has the privilege, if he sees fit, to be present at the lectures in the other class or classes; and any graduate of the School has the privilege of attending all the lectures for the session next ensuing his graduation.

There are seven Courts in almost continuous session in Baltimore during the entire scholastic year; and students have unusual opportunities to learn the law by attendance on the Courts. Students are advised to attend the Courts when they can conveniently do so, and to give careful attention and thought to the proceedings.

There is a Literary Society attached to the School, known as the Inglis Society, which is organized and conducted entirely by the students.

It has been the practice heretofore for students to form Quiz Clubs, composed of from five to ten members. They can, if properly conducted, be made very improving; and students are advised to form them.

Commencement.

The Annual Commencement for the session 1886-7 took place in Lehmann's Hall at 8 P. M., May 27, 1887. There were two orations—one by John Johnson, Jr., of Baltimore, who was selected by the Faculty, and one by James D. Cotter, of Baltimore, who was selected by the Class of 1887. Mr. S. Teackle Wallis, the Provost, delivered an address, awarded the prizes and conferred the degrees on the Graduating Class.

At the next Commencement orations will be delivered by two members of the Class, one selected by the Faculty and one by the Class; degrees will be conferred on the graduates, and the prizes on those to whom they are awarded.

Fees and Expenses.

The fees for each term are payable strictly in advance at the commencement of each term.

The charges for instructions are as follows :

Students attending one class

For Term of four months, - - - - $40

For Session of eight months, - - - $80

Students attending more than one class

For Term of four months, - - - - $50

For Session of eight months, - - - $100

There will be a Library fee of four dollars per annum for each student, and an additional charge of ten dollars to each graduate as a diploma fee.

Special arrangements may be made by members of the bar or others for attending any particular part or branch of instruction, at rates of charge in proportion to the above.

Board can be had in the city at prices varying from $4 to $10 per week.

For further information, and for tickets of admission to the School, application may be made to

HENRY D. HARLAN, Secretary of Law Faculty,
35 ST. PAUL STREET, BALTIMORE, MD.

Courses in History and Politics at the Johns Hopkins University.

The following courses will be open to law students for moderate fees, to be arranged according to the number of hours taken. All the courses here described are to be given from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M.

1. Early History of Institutions and Greek Politics.

Two hours weekly, first half-year, with DR. H. B. ADAMS.

This is the introduction to a three years' course in the History of Politics. Each year there will be one representative course in the ancient and one in the modern field.

The introductory course relates to the origin and development of early society, with a consideration of the theories of Morgan, McLennan, Spencer, and other writers. It treats also of ancient oriental forms of state-life, with a review of the oriental doctrines of government. It considers, in greater detail, the origin and development of Greek institutions, with a rapid review of Greek political philosophy.

2. The Rise of Prussia and Modern Germany.

Two hours weekly, second half-year, with DR. H. B. ADAMS.

This course of lectures in Modern Politics is the complement to the course in Ancient Politics, first half-year.

3. The Modern Historians.

Once weekly, through the year, with DR. J. F. JAMESON.

After a preliminary lecture or two on the characteristics of historical writing in ancient and mediaeval times, the development of modern historiography will be traced from the Renaissance to the present time. A systematic account of the writings, characteristics, and methods of the leading historians in each country of Europe and in America will be given.

4. Finance in States and Municipalities.

Three hours weekly, through the year, with DR. R. T. ELY.

This course for graduates is adapted to students of law, to those who design to follow journalism, and to others who have taken the preliminary instruction in Political Economy.

The course will begin with the subject of taxation, which will be considered in its economic and legal aspects. The various kinds of taxes will be examined and their historical development traced. Public debts, their growth, significance, and administration, will receive attention. The subject of taxation in American states and cities, as well as taxation by the Federal Government, will be among the most important topics treated. The course will conclude with a sketch of the financial history of the United States, including American tariff legislation.

5. The History of the English Law of Real Property.

Two hours weekly, through the year, with MR. EMMOTT.

The lectures on this subject will trace the outlines of the History of the Laws of England so far as they relate to Real Property, and will set forth their leading principles, endeavoring to show how those laws were until recently administered by distinct tribunals, the Courts of Common Law and the Court of Chancery; and to point out the limits of their respective jurisdictions.

6. In 1888-89 Mr. Emmott will repeat his course in Roman Law.

7. Course in Administration; Comparative Studies in Administrative Organization.

Two hours a week, second half-year, with DR. WOODROW WILSON.

This course will embrace (1) a discussion of the usual functions of government; (2) a somewhat detailed consideration of the organization of the supreme central authority in such single states as Prussia, France and England, and in such federal states as Switzerland, Germany and the United States; (3) a similar consideration of local government in the chief modern states, both single and federal; (4) comparisons of the chief modern methods of organizing the administration of justice, of finance, and of education.

8. Comparative Social Statistics.

One hour weekly, second half-year, with DR. E. R. L. GOULD.

The course will open with a consideration of the true relation of statistics to social science, the importance of their use in the study of social phenomena, and a view of what is being done in Europe and America to develop and utilize this branch of knowledge.

The remaining lectures will treat of current questions, mostly on the comparative basis, and will include, amongst other topics, the earnings, efficiency, and standard of living of European and American laborers; the sphere and influence of labor organizations in America and Europe; the different methods of dealing with the labor problem in England, France, Belgium, Germany, and the United States; the Factory System in the United States and Europe; the concentration of population and the housing of the lower classes in large cities; sanitary and health inspection regulations; the character and efficiency of charitable and philanthropic public institutions; leading experiments of social reform in England and America; the immigration question in the United States.

For terms and further particulars as to these courses, consult Dr. H. B. ADAMS, in the Historical Library, after October 1, between 9 and 10 o'clock A. M.
