ANNOUNCEMENT

In 1921 The American Bar Association adopted the following resolutions:

(1) The American Bar Association is of the opinion that every candidate for admission to the bar should give evidence of graduation from a law school complying with the following standards:

(a) It shall require as a condition of admission at least two years of study in a college.

(b) It shall require its students to pursue a course of three years duration if they devote substantially all of their working time to their studies, and a longer course, equivalent to the number of working hours, if they devote only part of their working time to their studies.

(c) It shall provide an adequate library available for the use of the students.

(d) It shall have among its teachers a sufficient number giving their entire time to the school to insure actual personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body.

(2) The American Bar Association is of the opinion that graduation from a law school should not confer the right of admission to the bar, and that every candidate should be subjected to an examination by public authority to determine his fitness.

(3) The Council on Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar is directed to publish from time to time the names of those law schools which comply with the above standards and of those which do not and to make such publication available so far as possible to intending law students.

In 1922 a Conference on Legal Education was held in Washington, attended by representatives from State and local bar associations and other lawyers of eminence, and the following resolution, endorsing the action of the American Bar Association, was passed:

“RESOLVED, That the National Conference of Bar Associations adopt the following statement in regard to legal education:

1. The great complexity of modern legal regulations requires for the proper performance of legal services, lawyers of broad general education and thorough legal training. The legal education which was fairly adequate under simpler economic conditions, is inadequate today. It is the duty of the legal profession to strive to create and maintain standards of legal education and rules of admission to the bar which will protect the public both from incompetent legal advisors and from those who would disregard the obligations of professional service. This duty can best be performed by the organized efforts of bar associations.

2. Further, we believe that law schools should not be operated as commercial enterprises, and that the compensation of any officer or member of its teaching staff should not depend on the number of students or on the fees received.

3. We agree with the American Bar Association that graduation from a law school should not confer the right of admission to the Bar, and that every candidate should be subjected to examination by public authority other than the authority of the law school of which he is a graduate.

4. Since the legal profession has to do with the administration of the law, and since public officials are chosen from its ranks more frequently than from the ranks of any other profession or business it is essential that the legal profession should not become the monopoly of any economic class.

5. We endorse the American Bar Association's standards for admission to the Bar because we are convinced that no such monopoly will result from adopting them. In almost every part of the country a young man of small means can, by energy and perseverance, obtain the college and law school education which the standards require. And we understand that in applying the rule requiring two years of study in a college, educational experience other than that acquired in an American college may, in proper cases, be accepted as satisfying the requirements of the rule, if equivalent to two years of college work.

6. We believe that the adoption of these standards will increase the efficiency and strengthen the character of those coming to the practice of law, and will therefore tend to improve greatly the administration of justice. We therefore urge the bar association of the several states to draft rules of admission to the Bar carrying the standards into effect and to take such action as they may deem advisable to procure their adoption.

7. Whenever any state does not at present afford such educational opportunities to young men of small means as to warrant the immediate adoption of the standards, we urge the bar association of the state to encourage and help the establishment and maintenance of good law schools and colleges, so that the standards may become practicable as soon as possible.

8. We believe that adequate intellectual requirements for admission to the Bar will not only increase the efficiency of those admitted to practice but will also strengthen their moral character. But we are convinced that high ideals of professional duty must come chiefly from an understanding of the traditions and standards of the Bar through study of such traditions and standards and by the personal contact of law students with members of the Bar who are marked by real interest in younger men, a love of their profession and a keen appreciation of the importance of its best traditions. We realize the difficulty of creating this kind of personal contact, especially in large cities; nevertheless, we believe that much can be accomplished by the intelligent co-operation between committees of the Bar and law school faculties.

9. We therefore urge courts and bar associations to charge themselves with the duty of devising means for bringing law students in contact with members of the Bar from whom they will learn, by example and precept, that admission to the Bar is not a mere license to carry on a trade, but that it is an entrance into a profession with honorable traditions of service which they are bound to maintain."

The action of these bodies has met a prompt and willing response from the law schools throughout the country, and today there are sixty-five law schools on the approved list as published by the Council. Included among them are all except four of the law schools maintained by State Universities, and each of these four have taken the steps necessary to become approved schools.

The Faculty of the Law School, mindful of its responsibilities in the matter of improving the standards of legal education in this State, and, from long experience, being convinced of the soundness of the standards advocated by the Bar Association, announced in 1925 its determination to comply therewith. Accordingly, increased educational requirements for entrance were announced; a day school, having a three year course of instruction was inaugurated for those students who can devote substantially their entire time to the study of law; the course in the evening school was lengthened to four years; additions were made to the full time faculty; and the library was greatly enlarged.

The Law School is now, therefore, complying in all essentials with the standards recommended by the Bar Association, and it is confidently hoped that the official approval as a Class "A" school will be forthcoming during the next scholastic year.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The General Assembly of Maryland in 1812 authorized the College of Medicine of Maryland, founded in 1807, "to constitute, appoint and annex to itself, three other colleges or faculties, viz., the Faculty of Divinity, the Faculty of Law, and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences," and declared that "the four colleges or faculties thus united should be constituted an university by the name and under the title of the University of Maryland." In pursuance of this authority the University was organized in 1813, being one of the oldest chartered universities in America coming eighth according to official figures.

While the first faculty of law was chosen in 1813, and David Hoffman was elected professor of law, and published in 1817 "A Course of Legal Study addressed to Students and the Profession Generally," which the North American Review pronounced to be "by far the most perfect system for the study of law which has ever been offered to the public" and which recommended a course of study so comprehensive as to require for its completion six or seven years, no regular school of instruction in law was opened until 1823. This was suspended in 1836 for lack of proper pecuniary support and on account of the small number of students who were able or willing to spend the time necessary, when admission to the Bar was of little difficulty, to take advantage of the course of Professor Hoffman, whose ideals of legal education were far in advance of his times. In 1869 the Law School was reorganized, and in 1870 regular instruction therein was begun. From time to time the course has been made more comprehensive and the Board of Instructors increased in number. Its graduates now number more than two thousand, and included among them are a large proportion of the leaders of the Bench and Bar of the State and many who have attained prominence in the profession elsewhere.

Two other Law Schools, the Baltimore Law School and the Baltimore University School of Law, were organized under charters granted by the State of Maryland. These two schools, both doing good work and steadily advancing their standards, were consolidated under the name of the Baltimore Law School in 1911. In 1913 the Baltimore Law School was in turn merged into the Law School of the University of Maryland. On July 1, 1920, the University of Maryland and the Maryland State College were consolidated under the name of the University of Maryland, with a view to the establishment of a strong State University with both undergraduate and professional schools.

Location and Library

The buildings of the Medical, Legal, Dental and Pharmaceutical Departments of the University of Maryland are located at the corner of Lombard and Greene Streets, in the City of Baltimore.

The Law Library contains an extensive collection of carefully selected text-books and treatises; the reports of the Federal District and Circuit Courts, the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and of the Courts of last resort of all other states since the inauguration of the Federal Reporter System; the English Common Law Reports; the American Digest System; all of the annotated case series; and the leading encyclopedias of law and Law Reviews. The tables are supplied with most of the current American and English legal periodicals. Many additions were made to the library during the year just passed, and ample provision has been made for its systematic betterment each year. The library now contains more than 6,000 standard volumes. It will be open for the use of the students from 9 A. M. to 10.30 P. M., and a librarian will be in charge during those hours to assist the students in finding and using the books. Students will be permitted to use the books freely in the reading room, but will not be permitted to take them from the library under any pretext whatever, and any violation of this rule will be severely punished. As the books will receive considerable handling through their frequent use, the students are requested to use them with care.

The Library of the Peabody Institute and the Enoch Pratt Free Library contain many works on the law which are available to the students without charge, and students of the Law School are, under certain conditions, permitted to use the large and complete library of the Baltimore Bar.

Course of Instruction

The course of instruction in the Law School is designed to thoroughly equip the student for the practice of his profession when he attains the Bar. Instruction is offered in the various branches of the common law, of equity, the statute law of Maryland, and the public law of the United States. The course of study embraces both the theory and practice of the law, and aims to give the student a broader view of the origin, development and function of law, together with a thorough practical knowledge of its principles and their application. Analytical study is made of the principles of substantive and procedural law, and a carefully directed practice court enables the student to get an intimate working knowledge of procedure.

Special attention is given to the statutes in force in Maryland, and to any peculiarities of the law in that State, where there are such. All of the subjects upon which the applicant for the Bar of Maryland is examined are included in the curriculum. But the curriculum includes all of the more important branches of the public and private law, and is well designed to prepare the student for admission to the Bar of other states.

Arrangement of Hours

The Law School is divided into two divisions, the Day School and the Evening School. The same curriculum is offered in each school, and the standards of work and graduation requirements are the same in each school.

The Day School course covers a period of three years of thirty-two weeks each, exclusive of holidays. The class sessions are held during the day, chiefly in the morning hours. The Practice Court work is held on one evening of each week.

The Evening School course covers a period of four years of forty weeks each, exclusive of holidays. The class sessions are held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week from 6.30 to 9.30 P. M. This plan leaves the alternate evenings for study and preparation by the student.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Candidates for Degree

Applicants for admission to the Law School for the next scholastic year must present evidence of good moral character, and, if candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws, must have completed at the time of admission to the School at least two years of college work or its equivalent.

The Faculty Council will consider that students are properly qualified for entrance as candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Laws who have received a bachelor's degree from any reputable college or university, or who present a certificate showing the successful completion of two or more years of college work at an accredited college or university, or who present satisfactory evidence of the completion of such work as would be accepted for admission to the third or junior year in the College of Liberal Arts of an accredited college or university in this State.

Special Students, Candidates for Certificate of the School

A limited number of students applying for entrance with less than the academic credit required of candidates for the law degree, who are over twenty-one years of age, and who, in the opinion of the Faculty Council, possess special qualifications for the study of law, may be admitted as candidates for the certificate of the school, but not for the degree.

Application for admittance as a special student should be made as early as possible by letter showing the age of the applicant, together with a detailed statement of attendance at high schools or other educational institutions and of the work therein completed and the work pursued by the applicant since leaving such educational institutions.

Combined Program of Study Leading to the Degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws

The University of Maryland offers a combined program in arts and law leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Laws.

Students pursuing this combined program in college and pre-legal subjects will spend the first three years in the College of Arts and Sciences at College Park. The fourth year they will register in the Law School, and upon the successful completion of the work of the first year in the Day School, or the equivalent work in the Evening School, the degree of Bachelor of Arts will be awarded. The degree of Bachelor of Laws will be awarded upon the completion of the work prescribed for graduation in the School of Law.

Details of the combined course may be had upon application to the University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Pre-Legal Work

The two year pre-legal work may be taken in the schools of arts and sciences in any accredited university or college. The satisfactory completion of two years work toward the degree offered in the extension courses conducted by the Johns Hopkins University will be accepted as meeting the entrance requirements of the Law School.

Advanced Standing

Students complying with the requirements for admission to the school who have, in addition, successfully pursued the study of law elsewhere in an accredited law school, may, upon presentation of a certificate from such accredited law school showing his honorable dismissal therefrom, and the successful completion of equivalent courses therein, covering at least as many hours as are required for such subjects in this school, receive credit for such courses and be admitted to advanced standing. No credit will be given for study pursued in a law office, and no degree will be conferred until after one year of residence and study at this school.

Registration

All students are required, when entering for each session, to report at the office of the Registrar, located in the Law Building, Lombard and Greene Streets, in person and enroll. Each student will receive a Class Card, stating his registration and payment of fees. This card will be necessary in order to obtain admission to the classes. The date of enrollment for each session will be noted, and names not upon the register will not be placed upon the class rolls. The stipulated period of attendance upon the Law School for the purpose of graduation, and for insertion in the certificate required to take the examination for admission to the bar before the State Board of Law Examiners, will be calculated from the register, and the class rolls made therefrom.

The attention of all students is called to the fact that no registration will be allowed except by special action of the Faculty Council after the last day for registration as designated in the calendar.

Students who fail to pay the tuition and other fees required on or before the last day of registration, for each term or semester, as stated in the catalogue, will be required to pay as an addition to the fees required the sum of Five ($5.00) Dollars, and if the payment so required shall not be paid before twenty (20) days from the beginning of said term or semester, the student's name will be stricken from the rolls.

Fees and Expenses

The charges for instruction are as follows:

Registration fee, to accompany application.....	$2.00
Matriculation fee, payable on first registration.....	10.00
Diploma fee, payable upon graduation.....	15.00

Tuition fee, per annum:

Day School.....	$200.00
Evening School.....	150.00

An additional tuition fee of $50.00 per annum must be paid by students who are non-residents of the State of Maryland.

Students who are minors are considered to be resident students, if at the time of their registration their parents or guardians have been residents of this State for at least one year.

Adult students are considered to be resident students, if at the time of their registration they have been residents of this State for at least one year.

The status of the residence of a student is determined at the time of his first registration in the University and may not thereafter be changed by him unless, in the case of a minor, his parents or guardians move to and become legal residents of this State.

The tuition fee is payable in two equal installments, one-half at the time of registration for the First Term, and one-half at the time of registration for the Second Term.

Rebates. The matriculation fee is not subject to rebate. In cases of total withdrawal from the school, a pro-rata return of the tuition fee may be authorized by the Dean. When a rebate is authorized, it will be reckoned from the end of the month in which the Dean receives notice from the student.

Conditioned Students. Students who have attended the Law School but have failed of graduation, and who, as candidates for a degree, are required to complete certain courses, must register at the beginning of the term in which such courses are given, and pay a fee of $15 for each course so taken. No student will be permitted to take the examination in any course without having registered and paid the fee.

Privileges, Courts, Etc.

There are ten Courts in almost continuous session in Baltimore during the entire scholastic year; the students have unusual opportunities to learn the law by attendance on the Courts and are advised to attend the Courts when they can conveniently do so, and to give careful attention and thought to the proceedings.

PRACTICE COURT

The Law School endeavors not only to thoroughly equip its students with an accurate knowledge of legal principles, but also train them in the application of that knowledge and fit them for the practice of law. To that end special care and thought are devoted to the conduct of the Practice Court, which is in session throughout the scholastic year.

The work of the Practice Court is designed to afford opportunity not only for the argument of law questions, but also for preparation and conduct of a case through all its stages, as nearly as possible in accordance with the procedure in actual trial work. Three features are especially emphasized, viz: The drawing of pleadings, the writing of briefs, and the oral argument of questions of law.

A set of Court Rules has been adopted in accordance with which the students are required to prepare and file their pleadings and conduct their cases. Students are furnished with statements of facts, involving debatable principles of law, supposed to represent the claims of the respective parties to the litigation, from which they draft the necessary pleadings and prepare their cases for trial. They are thus enabled to familiarize themselves with the practical duties of court practice to an extent which the mere argument of mooted questions of law does not afford. The cases assigned are such as to illustrate the principles involved in all the courses covered by the curriculum, particularly those of Pleading and Practice.

Students are required to prepare and file trial briefs and appeal briefs, which must be prepared in accordance with approved legal practice. The students are required to show familiarity with all important authorities relating to the questions discussed in both briefs and oral arguments, and the authorities relied upon must be carefully studied and effectively presented.

The course extends through the second and third years of the Day School and the third and fourth years of the Evening School. Attendance at all sessions of the Practice Court by members of those classes is compulsory. Except by affirmative vote of the Faculty Council, no student will receive credit for work in the Practice Court unless he has attended at least seventy-five per cent. of the sessions each year. There is no examination in this course, the grade of the student being based upon the work done in the Court. The grade thus attained by the student is treated the same as the grade given on examination in other subjects. The successful completion of the course gives the student a credit of four points toward his degree.

GRADUATION

The Law School confers the degree of Bachelor of Laws upon the students of good moral character who have met the entrance requirements for candidates for the degree; and have satisfactorily completed three years of resident law work in the Day School, as prescribed by the regulations; and have submitted to the Faculty Council a satisfactory thesis. The work required for the degree consists of seventy-eight points, each point representing the satisfactory completion of work requiring class-room attendance one hour a week for one term. This requirement may be met in the Day School by a program embracing the prescribed work of the first year, and a minimum of 12 hours of class work per week and the work of the Practice Court through the second and third years; in the Evening School by a program embracing the prescribed work in the first two years, and a minimum of eight and one-half hours of class work per week and the work of the Practice Court through the third and fourth years.

All students are required to take the work in the Practice Court and a credit of four points towards the degree may be earned by its successful completion.

Only those courses in which the student receives a grade of 75 or better may be counted towards the degree, except that in the courses taken by the student in the third year of the Day School or the fourth year of the Evening School, one grade of not less than 50 may be counted towards the degree, provided the general average of the student is 80 or more.

EXAMINATIONS AND GRADES

1. Written examinations are held at the end of each term for each class on the subjects given during that term, and deficiency examinations are held during the week preceding the opening of the fall term.

2. All students, unless excused by the Dean, must present themselves for examination in all subjects for which they are registered at the first regular examination held therein.

3. Except by affirmative vote of the Faculty Council, no student will be permitted to take the examination in any course unless he has attended at least 75 per cent. of the lectures therein.

4. Each examination is valued at 100, and a grade of 75 is required to pass. The grades will be reported to the student in writing as soon as possible after each term.

5. No student may receive credit for any course in which he has failed unless within two years of such failure he receives a passing mark in that subject.

6. Upon failing the second time in the examination in any two subjects, a student will not be permitted to continue his course at the Law School.

7. A student will be required to repeat the entire work of a class unless he has successfully completed a sufficient number of the courses taken to insure, in the judgement of the Faculty Council, the ability to proceed satisfactorily with the work of the next higher class.

8. The Faculty Council reserves the right to require the withdrawal of any student from either school whose continued presence there would not, in the judgment of the Council, be of benefit to himself or would be detrimental to the best interests of the school.

9. DEFICIENCY EXAMINATIONS—Students who have failed to pass the regular examinations in a course offered in the first two years of the Day School or in the first three years of the Evening School; students admitted to advanced standing; and students who have been excused from taking the regular examination when given, may take the deficiency examination in such courses.

Application to take the deficiency examinations to be held beginning Tuesday, September 4th, must be filed with the Dean on or before Monday, August 27th. A fee of $5.00 for each subject to be taken must accompany the application.

Thesis

Each candidate for a degree must prepare a satisfactory type-written thesis of not less than three thousand words on some legal topic to be selected by the Faculty Council. This thesis must represent original investigation on the part of the student. In no case will a mere compilation of authorities be accepted. Theses must be handed in on or before April 1st of the year in which the degree is to be granted. Each writer must attach to it a sealed envelope containing his name. The attention of the students is called to the fact that the Faculty will require a high standard of excellence in the theses.

Honors and Prizes

In the year 1929 two prizes of $100 each will be awarded:

One to the student of the graduating class who obtains the highest average grade for the entire course, and one to the student of the graduating class who submits the most meritorious thesis.

Each year four students in the Practice Court are assigned, on the basis of their work in the Practice Court, to the Honor Case which is tried at the end of the year. The Alumni Association of the Law School offers a prize of $50.00 to the student so assigned, who, on the trial of the case, has the best argument and manner of presentation.

Scholarships

Mr. Louis S. Ashman, of the Baltimore Bar and an alumnus of the Law School, has assigned to the Regents all Royalties to be derived from a law book published by him under the title "Prayers and Instructions."

The interest from the fund thus established is to be used to provide a scholarship or scholarships to be known as "The Louis S. Ashman Scholarship", carrying tuition only in the Law School for a student or students recommended annually by the Faculty Council as worthy to receive the same by scholarly attainments and the need of financial assistance in pursuing the study of law.

Scholarships will be awarded for one year only, but the same person may receive more than one award provided his scholastic work and influence in the School are such as to merit this distinction.

Until the royalties provide a fund the income of which will be sufficient to equal the tuition fees of at least one student, Mr. Ashman will annually supply a sum equivalent to the tuition fees of one student.

Admission to the Bar

Under the rules governing admission to the Bar in the State of Maryland, each applicant is required to register with the Court of Appeals as a law student before beginning the study of law. A high school education or its equivalent is required of all applicants for registration as a law student. Application blanks for such registration may be procured from the registrar by the student at the time of his registration in the Law School. A fee of $5.00 payable to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals must accompany each application.

Applicants for admission to the Bar must have studied law in the office of a member of the Bar of this State or in a law school of the United States for at least three years, and must file a petition with the Court of Appeals at least ten days before the day fixed for the examination they wish to take. A fee of $25.00, payable to the Court of Appeals, must accompany each application.

Admission to the Bar is upon examination by the State Board of Law Examiners. The examinations are held in June and November of each year, and embrace the following subjects: Agency, Conflict of Laws, Constitutional Laws, Contracts, Corporations, Criminal Law, Domestic Relations, Equity, Evidence, Negotiable Instruments, Personal Property, Pleading and Practice at Law and in Equity, Public Service Companies, Real Property, Torts, Wills and Administration of Estates. All of the required courses are included in the curriculum offered by the Law School.

Further information concerning the examinations or matters relating to admission to the Bar may be had upon application to Mr. Jesse N. Bowen, Secretary, State Board of Bar Examiners, Citizens National Bank Building, Baltimore.
